

Marin Catholic lights would cause problems

We have always been a sports family.

Our youngest son is a rower for a college on the East Coast.

We live on Manor Road in Kentfield, across from Marin Catholic High School, and we hear the game calls during the day, which have never been a bother to us.

If stadium lights are approved, it will result in motorists utilizing both sides of Manor Road, which is a main thoroughfare for emergency traffic.

There are already two sets of speed humps on the road, which delay paramedics, fire and law enforcement emergency response.

Night-time lighting at Marin Catholic events would result in motorists parking on both sides of an existing narrow road and result in more delays.

This is not what residents who live up above the Manor want when it comes to public safety response.

A few years ago the Kentfield Planning Advisory Board approved the stadium project to move forward, but without stadium lighting.

Next year is an election year, so don't let this controversial issue turn into a dog-and-pony show.

No stadium lights at Marin Catholic.
